

Session 5: Biodiversity, Wildlife & Species at Risk Wednesday, April 7th @ 7pm

Speaker Biographies

Cohabitation of You and Wildlife in your Woodlot

Speaker: Sarah Spencer

Provincial Furbearer and Small Game Biologist at Nova Scotia Department of Lands & Forestry

Email: Sarah.Spencer@novascotia.ca

Sarah has worked in the field of Wildlife Management for over 20 years, including 6 years spent living and working in Canada's Arctic. Much of her career has been spent working with wildlife in Nova Scotia, including furbearers, large mammals, and species at risk. A large part of Sarah's work with the Department of Lands and Forestry involves public outreach and working closely with various government and non-government organizations on various aspects of wildlife management.

Biodiversity Pilot Program

Speaker: Abby Lewis

Forest Stewardship Coordinator at the Mersey Tobeatic Research Institute

Email: abby.lewis@merseytobeatic.ca

Abby grew up in Queens County and studied forestry at the University of Northern BC. She currently works on a variety of forestry projects including woodlot owner engagement and hemlock woolly adelgid management, as well as species at risk conservation projects. In her spare time, Abby loves to ski or paddle, depending on the weather!

